Entered at the Post Office at Janesville, Wis., as second-class matter.

JANESVILLE, WISCONSIN, FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 2, 1881.

Published Every Evening Except Sunday, at $7 a Year.

NUMBER 151

The pluckiest persons known to this country are the President and his wife.

The public debt was decreased over $14,000,000 during the month of August.

The United States will forgive Canada for stealing the mail bags if she will promise to keep Vennor.

Mr. Jenkins can give the Democrats no aid this fall. He hasn't yet been able to see through that 25,000 majority against him two years ago.

Two years ago General Parkinson said the prospects for Democratic success were so bright that it was embarrassing to the Democrats. This year they are embarrassed because they have no prospects. Democracy and embarrassment go hand in hand.

Senator Ben Hill is again troubled with a cancer on the tongue. A great deal has been said in a humorous way about his diseased tongue, but it is now becoming a serious matter with him and people will regret that he is so unfortunate. There are fears that the cancer can not be cured.

Although at the very entrance of the valley of the shadow of death, the President takes time to get off a few figurative expressions. When it seemed as if courage could hold out no longer, and that death would be the victor after all, he said only a few days ago, "I wonder how many more stations I must pass before my journey is ended."

Three members of the editorial staff of the Evening Wisconsin compiled an almanac on the 21st of August for the remainder of the month, to see how near they could come to guessing the weather. One scored 15 correct guesses out of the 29, one 10, and the third, like Vennor, guessed right only twice. As a guesser or Vennor is the worst failure that ever proposed to prognosticate the weather.

A meeting of coal consumers of Milwaukee was held in that city on Wednesday night. The meeting was opposed to high prices, and was determined to break the monopoly by elabbing together and buying coal in large lots and selling it for $5.50 per ton. A committee of two from each ward in the city was appointed to canvass for subscribers for coal at this rate, each subscriber to put up half his money in advance. About one hundred persons were present at the meeting, and nearly all of them were socialists. It was claimed that coal men in Buffalo had offered to deliver coal in Milwaukee at such prices as would enable the local dealers to sell at $6.05 a ton. The fact that the socialists organized and controlled the meeting is evidence enough that their scheme will not work.

The surgeons are anxious to get the President away from Washington, and will remove him just as early as possible. Washington is an unhealthy city. The number of deaths to every 1,000 inhabitants, shows as great a mortality as in any other city in the United States, the rate being nearly 33 to every 1,000. The most unhealthy Southern city can not show a greater mortality than this. The New York Tribune very correctly remarks that "figures as a rule are dry reading; but these have a peculiar interest for the whole country, and throw into strong relief the need for prompt action on the part of Congress improving the sanitary condition of the city. That the subtle influences of malaria and other poisons which seem to fill the air may no effect on the stricken President is the earnest prayer of the whole country."

THE REPUBLICANS AND THE CANVASS

There will evidently be a sharp contest in the Republican State convention over the Governorship. There are two prominent candidates and several who are anxious and willing, but are not pressing their claims with much vigor as yet. There is but little doubt that the choice will fall on Secretary of State Warner or General Rusk with chances strongly in favor of Warner. It looks this way now, and so far as these two candidates are concerned, there will not likely be any changes between this time and the meeting of the convention. There will be another struggle for Secretary of State, and probably a hard one, and also for State Treasurer, and in fact none of the positions will be got without an exciting fight. Locality and nationality will enter into the contest in the convention, and on account of the numerous contingencies which will hang over the whole question of nominations, it is exceedingly difficult to determine what the result will be.

The Republicans throughout the State are enthusiastic at present. It will probably be a one-sided campaign, because the Democrats have lost both heart and organization. But the Gazette is not of those who think that the Republicans are so enthusiastic, or the Democrats so despondent and disorganized that the former can afford to make any mistakes in the convention at Madison. There is plenty of material on hand from which to select nominations for the State ticket. There is a flood of candidates, and the fight for the places will be sharp, but we hope not bitter, and it may be that there will be some disappointment after the work is done. In the heat of the contest the delegates must remember that there must be no blunder made. The very best men possible must be placed on the ticket, and locality and nationality must be cautiously and wisely considered. If this be done, and the convention be a representative one, doing its work free from the influence of any ring or clique, the Republicans will sweep the State by a greater majority than ever before known.

The Republicans can not afford to do any careless work no matter how much demoralized the Democrats may be. The best foot should be put forward and the cleanest ticket nominated, that what is done at the convention may command the highest opinion of the people. There will never be an excuse for the Democratic party to stick up its head above the surface in this State if the Republicans will make the best use of their opportunities.

ABOUT THE TEMPERANCE CONFERENCE.

Our esteemed friend, Rev. G. W. Lawrence, sends the Gazette a communication on the temperance conference, in answer to a brief editorial note in this paper on Wednesday last. We can only give space to that portion of the communication bearing directly upon the points made by the Gazette editorial. Mr. Lawrence says:

Lost readers of your paper throughout the country should get permanently unfavorable impressions concerning the action of the temperance conference held in this city, August 30th and 31st, you will grant me, I trust, the privilege of correcting some statements contained in your daily issue of the 31st ult., and which I presume have been circulated through your weekly journal. There were, you say, "widely different views as to how prohibition shall be reached." This is a mistake. The truth is, there was but one opinion expressed on this question. It was unanimously held that the only course to pursue was directly through the ballot box. The strong appeal to political parties was positively without the shadow of dissent. There was not the slightest intimation on the part of any member of the conference about "kicking over the traces." No "antagonistic methods" were presented. If there were any persons who participated in the doings of the conference to whom the term "ultra" properly applies, it was and is equally applicable to all. There was a depth of moral earnestness apparent which indicated a strong purpose to move against the enemy's works in the most efficient manner possible. It is proposed to compass our object not by striking "one blow," but through a continued succession of blows. And it is proposed, also, to have the blows fall where they will do the most complete execution. If any or all political parties are hit, it will be because they stand in our way, and are consenting with the common foe as aiders and abettors of a traffic which we are pledged to stamp out and destroy. A scholarly and carefully written address by Rev. Mr. McLean, of Beloit, touched the keynote of the conference. The theme was "Prohibition," and the thoughtful and eloquent speaker held admirably to his text throughout. His deeply impressive words met with a full response from the heads and hearts of all who heard him.

We beg leave to differ with our esteemed friend, and still maintain that there were widely different views expressed in the conference as to how prohibition should be reached. We wrote the editorial note in question simply as a matter of justice to our readers, who want the facts and nothing more. To have written differently would have been to cover up the truth, which the Gazette did not desire to do on the question of prohibition or any other question.

If Mr. Lawrence was present at the conference he probably heard the Rev. Mr. Eaton say in a speech that with him and some others it was "prohibition or nothing." He frankly confessed that there were those in the conference who differed with him as to the methods that should be employed in order to reach prohibition. Mr. S. D. Hastings occupied the same position as Mr. Eaton. The Rev. O. G. May, of Fulton, an earnest temperance worker, did not agree altogether with the theories of Eaton and Hastings. He was in favor of enforcing the present laws of the State in regard to temperance, and wanted to reach prohibition by gradual stages. Mr. Paxton, of Chicago, was opposed to the positions of Eaton and Hastings, and said they were not the most practical that could be adopted. He thought the temperance people, and many of them, like Eaton and Hastings probably, were sleeping with their eyes wide open, and were doing two much talking and not enough doing right earnest practical work.

We repeat again, there were some in the conference who favored the plan of utilizing every help within their reach that temperance may advance and prohibition finally secured; and there were others in the conference who favored prohibition or nothing. The difference in these two methods, is, that the former builds up the temperance work, while the latter destroys it.

STATE NOTES.

MADISON, Wis., Sept. 1.—The homestead belonging to Williams & Tato, which was proposed last winter should be bought by the State and used as an executive mansion, was auctioneered off to-day for $14,600. John H. Knight, of Bayfield, was the purchaser. The property was assessed at $17,000, and was valued at twice that sum.

Treasury agent Fischer to-day prepared a statement showing receipts from bankers and peddlers for five months ending September. The total is $11,532.16, same time last year, $5,086.67. In the Supreme Court to-day the following cases of public interest were argued: Nelson vs. St. Croix Boom corporation; Gunn, administrator vs. Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis and Omaha company; Fisher vs. $5,000 damages for the killing of Charles Gunn at Elroy through contributory negligence of the company's employees. Alex. Gadow, of Oauve, was appointed special deputy by Treasury Agent Fischer to-day.

BLAINE'S BULLETIN.

EXECUTIVE MANSION, Sept. 1.—At half-past 9 Secretary Blaine sent the following dispatch:

To Lowell, Minister, London: The President continues to do well in his eating and digestion, and swollen gland steadily improves, but in the last twenty-four hours, he has made no substantial progress in his general condition. In the judgment of his physicians, however, he still holds the ground gained Sunday and Monday last. His pulse and temperature to-day have shown a marked increase over the record of yesterday. The weather has been exceedingly warm and sultry, and this may account for the adverse changes noted. Even in the September climate of Washington, such an oppressive day as this has been rare.

BLAINE, Secretary.

THE PRESIDENT'S CONDITION.

A Cheerful Statement of the Case by Dr. Boynton.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—There was the usual cabinet meeting at the White House to-night, but the members did not remain late, and in Mr. Brown's room there was an unusually small gathering of reporters. Dr. Boynton said to-night that the President has passed a very comfortable day, and that he had been more inclined to talk than for any time within three weeks. His mind takes on topics.

"Has he gained any strength to-day?" "Well, that depends a good deal upon what you mean by strength. He cannot exert himself any more, or move himself about any easier than formerly, but his color is better, his eyes are brighter, and his mind more active than yesterday or the day before, and he begins to feel better. He takes more notice of what is going on about him, and is more particular about his food than formerly. These are all favorable indications."

"What has he eaten to-day?" "Food," (laughing). "What kind of food?" "A little beefsteak, some stewed chicken, beside milk toast and gruel."

"Does he swallow any food?" "No, he merely chews it and swallows the juice."

"Or any of the chicken?" "No."

"Doctor, there has been some mention of rigors in the bulletins. Has there been any indications of a return of trouble of that kind?"

"None whatever. The President has shown no more sign of rigor than you have. It was an unfortunate allusion, and there was no cause for it."

"How is the wound doing to-day?" "Fairly well. The pus discharge has not been so large, and the doctors say that is on account of the healing. I do not think the wound is healing any at present, however."

"The tubes do not penetrate quite as far as formerly, but the duct is still twelve inches long."

"How about the swollen gland?" "That is doing better. The swelling has gone down considerably, and it begins to look better."

"Does any of the pus get into the mouth?" "Yes, a little. It is mixed with the mucus matter, and the patient spits it out easily."

"Has there been anything said about the bullet to-day?" "No. That matter has not been discussed, I believe. At least, I have heard nothing of it."

GOVERNOR SMITH.

He is Reported as Slightly Better.

THE PRESIDENT.

Notes of the Cases as Given by One of the Attending Physicians.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—The following information is furnished by one of the physicians in attendance upon the President:

"The tube at the evening dressing to-day could not be inserted quite so far as yesterday, showing the track of the ball is closing up from the bottom, and is now only a little over nine inches deep. The size of the wound is also contracting along its course, and is very sensitive to the touch. The opening into the mouth is just above the angle of the jaw, and gives no trouble. The fact that the pus burrowed through has no bearing on the case, and will not delay recovery in any respect."

"What would now do the President more good than anything else is a thunder storm. The air is remarkably lacking in stimulating properties, and the President feels its sorely. We are wishing for a shower."

"A very satisfactory sign in the case is the later occurrence of the afternoon rise in fever yesterday. It will keep coming on later and later, and continue for a brief period, until it fails to appear. The reason he does not appear to-day so well from the figures on the bulletin, is owing to the temporary fluctuations of the case that may be looked for sometime, but while causing higher temperature and pulse will not retard the recuperation of strength very much. He is better to-day than the figures indicate."

"We have been discussing the President's removal to-day. I don't think we shall decide in favor of the trip on the Tallapoosa, as the President insists upon going to Mentor, and, above all, won't hear of being taken to the Soldiers' Home. I think that he will not be removed till he can go on the cars, and that perhaps we shall remove him to Deer park and rest a few days, when he can go on to Mentor. His recovery, however, is in favor of Atlanta City. Bliss and Barnes and Woodruff will probably go along when he is removed. Keyburn has a private practice he can't well leave, and Agnew and Hamilton cannot go so far away unless the case is urgent."

"[It may be remarked, by way of comment, that it is not clear how the doctor would get to Mentor. He would have to go by rail, and then by stage, and then by car, involving a change of trucks under the car, owing to different gauge tracks, or hundreds of miles of useless travel.]"

To resume, "We shall, probably, have a car especially fitted up for the President, made by removing the end of a dining car, and putting in a spring bed and other appliances."

"We have seen nothing of the ball yet. There are no indications of any trouble with the lungs or heart, or any other glands."

A BIG BLAZE.

MANITOWOC, Sept. 1.—The convent at Silver Lake, five miles from this place, was struck by lightning and burned down last night. It was the largest and most costly building in the county, being valued at $65,000. There was upwards to eighty persons in the building. The building was insured for but $3,500. The convent is of the Sisters of the Third order of the St. Francis. The institution was presided over by Mother Augustine, superior, and Mother Charles Fischer, gloriosa. For a time after the building was struck the wildest confusion prevailed, but under the leadership of the Mother Superior and the priest the sisters went nobly to work and succeeded in rescuing every person in the building. It was thought that one or two had perished in the flames, but all fears were set at rest as soon as daylight appeared. The scene is said to have been one of wild and sublime grandeur, and the flames lit up the country for miles around. Some very narrow escapes are told of, but the Sisters congratulate themselves that no one was killed. It is said they will at once proceed to rebuild the institution; that at present it cannot be stated what the loss amounts to, as it is not known to what extent the walls of the building are injured.
